What is inequality and social justice?

Watch the video about justice. Afterwards, discuss these questions in class:

1. Why is not always fair if everyone always gets the same?
2. What are the two sides of discrimination?
3. Have you witnessed or experienced discrimination yourself?

MA Max

Hi Max! Did you hear about the class rep election results?

Yes, Arsema! I'm so mad about it.

Me too! Lucy got the most votes, but Mr. Smith declared Thomas the winner. It's so unfair!

Exactly! What's the point of voting if the teacher just picks whoever he wants?

It goes against democracy! Votes should matter. It's like saying our opinions don't count.

I know, right? We all chose Lucy because we believe in her, not because Mr. Smith thinks Thomas would be better.

This isn't fair to Lucy either. She worked hard for those votes. It's like her effort was for nothing.

Totally. And it's a bad example for us. How will we trust the system if it's not fair?

We should talk to Mr. Smith and tell him how we feel. Maybe he doesn't realize he's teaching us the wrong lesson.

Good idea. We need to stand up for what's right. Fair elections are a big part of democracy.

Yes! Democracy is about everyone's voice being heard, not just one person's decision.

Let's gather our classmates and explain our concerns to Mr. Smith. We need to make sure this doesn't happen again.

Agreed. We have to do this together. It's about fairness and justice for everyone.

Absolutely. Let's meet after school to plan what we want to say.

Sounds good! See you later, Max.

See you, Arsema!

Read the chat between Arsema and Max. Then discuss in class: Why do they both find it so unfair that Nina didn't win? If Thomas would really be a better class representative, shouldn't he be allowed to get the position, even if he didn't receive the most votes? What do you think?
